

Mantelpieces

A Key Accessory For Any Décor

It's not difficult to see why mantelpieces have been an integral part of decorating styles for several years. One of the key elements of home decoration is to have either one or two focal points in any room, and there aren't too many pieces that command attention as much as a Gas Log Fireplace. Mantelpieces not only reinforce that attraction, but can often give the extra 'wow' factor so many of our clients appreciate.

As fireplaces evolved into a separate heating and cooking area, fireplace mantels adapted to not only channel fumes, but also hold large iron pots above the flames. Gradually, as fireplaces became a stylish heating unit, mantels became more decorative, and slowly evolved into the separate, shelving entity that we think of today.

Although they are usually no longer required to serve any cooking or heating purposes, mantelpieces are becoming popular as a key accessory feature appreciated by many contemporary interior designers.

Thanks to the emergence of new technology heating and exhaust systems, mantelpieces now have greater installation flexibility and can usually be successfully fitted around most traditional and modern fireplaces. Think of mantelpieces as being an attention drawing piece which further emphasises the compelling appearance of gas log fireplaces.

Mantelpieces are now versatile enough to be able to adapt to any decorating style; Minimalist, Pre-20th century, Retro, Modern, Nordic, and so on. And renovators seem to appreciate Gas Log Fire Company's range of mantelpieces that can usually complete and harmonise with traditional refurbishments.

When it comes to identifying the right mantelpiece to 'fit' your choice of décor, you are usually only limited by four things,

- mode of heating
- heater placement
- wall space
- your imagination

However, some of us find it a little challenging establishing the right mantelpieces to perfectly match the personal style of our property. So we often find our more discerning clients choose to consult with an interior designer or stylist. Gas Log Fire Company's popular referral service connects owners with architects and designers, such as the highly esteemed Belinda Vandenboom from GallerieB. Please feel welcome to enquire if you think this might be appropriate for you.

There is no denying the centuries old tradition of installing a mantelpiece has enjoyed a whole new rebirth as clean lined, fuss-free designs have been incorporated into modern styles of décor, and property owners are seeking to secure the worth of their home with renovations and refurbishments. Mantelpieces are once again becoming an almost essential element of the interior style of our living spaces.
